GUESTS OF CITY TAKEN TO PEARL HARBOR BY TRAIN

The Coast Chamber of Commerce Party Sees
Many Show Places and Takes in the Coming Naval War Base.

Early yesterday forenoon the Chamber of Commerce party from the Coast was shown about Honolulu, going to the Pali and the Aquarium in automobiles. At 11:05 it took a special train at the O. R. & L. depot for the Peninsula, where a fine luncheon was waiting under the trees of the park. P. Cooke was master of ceremonies, assisted by H. P. Wood. Besides the Chamber of Commerce commissioners and their wives, the guests included Admiral Hollyday, Captain Rees and Engineer Parks of the Navy, the Japanese Consul General at San Francisco and one of his countrymen, Captain Watson, and Mr. Clark of the Examiner, a cousin of Mr. Hearst. There were a few local people also.

The luncheon, which had been provided by Ludvigsen & Junglaas, was an excellent one, and at its conclusion, while the visitors were waiting for the arrival of the Iroquois to take them about Pearl Harbor, there was some informal speaking. Mr. Cooke opened the feast of reason with the following remarks, which were most cordially received:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: On behalf of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce and of the citizens of Hawaii, I bid you, one and all, a hearty welcome to this Territory. Our hearts are full of aloha for you all.

"We have met and welcomed a few of you from time to time, but never have we had such a representative gathering of men and women from the Pacific coast as is with us today.

"We wish to thank you for the courtesy which you have extended to us, in inviting our Chamber to join with yours in sending representatives to Japan in response to the cordial invitation from the chambers of commerce of Tokyo, Osaka, Yokohama, Kyoto and Kobe. We have gladly availed ourselves of this offer and have appointed men whom we believe will do credit to our Chamber and to the Territory.

"We are under a deep debt of gratitude to the chambers of commerce in all of the cities of the Pacific coast, never since annexation have we failed to receive the most hearty support whenever we have called for it. Over two years ago when the question of the Hilo breakwater was before Congress, we asked your assistance and obtained it. When Pearl Harbor was under discussion in the present Congress, we were given the most generous support, and it was largely through your assistance that we were enabled to get appropriations for the development of this important naval base. Therefore, when you hear in the future of the development of this great harbor (which you will see for yourselves after lunch, under the able guidance of Captain Rees), you can take credit unto yourselves for having had a part in it.

"From the earliest days, the relations between the Pacific coast and Hawaii have been of the closest. In the

Candidate for County Attorney of Maui Will Answer Perjury Charge

(Special by Wireless to the Advertiser.)

WAILUKU, October 1.—J. W. Kalua, the Republican candidate for the County Attorneyship of Maui, an office he now holds by appointment, will appear before Judge Kepoikal today at half-past one o'clock to answer to a charge of perjury laid against him. This charge is the result of a motion made before the court yesterday by J. Lightfoot, of Honolulu, in connection with the estate of Henry Cooper, deceased. The administrator of the estate, Kapu, testified that he had paid Kalua $683.80, Kalua also getting five head of work animals from the estate.

Five witnesses were put on the stand to testify that Kalua borrowed these animals and refused to return them, converting them to his own use.

Kalua denied this on the stand, swearing that he had paid cash for the animals to some man, whom he did not know.

Lightfoot, after presenting his motion that Kalua be committed to the grand jury for perjury, said: "I don't believe that there was ever a worse conglomeration of lies than was told by Kalua, and if there is a God in heaven he lies. There is now but ten cents left of this estate."

REGISTRATION PERIOD CLOSING

Seven More Days Only Are
Dwindling Fast.

Counting today, the voters of Honolulu who have so far neglected to register their names for the new voting list have seven days to remedy the neglect in. After seven o'clock on Friday night next the chance will be over for the next two years to appear upon the lists as a duly-qualified voter.

The indications are that this year there will be a fuller registration than ever before, but as yet there are some hundreds eligible as voters who have neglected to register. The lists closed last night with nearly five thousand names entered, while the normal registration here is over six thousand. The total registered now, however, is some in excess of the corresponding period for registration in 1906.

The hours during which the office of the Board of Registration is open for business are from eight until ten o'clock every morning, from noon until one o'clock, and from four until seven in the evening.

Heretofore, on the night prior to the closing of the lists, it has been the custom for the Board of Registration to sit until midnight, giving the lagards the benefit of the last minutes. Chairman Chillingworth sees no necessity for doing such, however, and this time the lists will close at seven o'clock in the evening of the last day for registration. His contention is that the voters have plenty of time to get around without the board members having to stay up until midnight to entertainer of the Kilokana Art League last evening at the first of the League's entertainments for the season. Mr. Fulton has a leave of absence of a year from the University and he and Mrs. Fulton are going to spend it in travel, and are now on their way around the world. Old friends and pupils and Ohio people with the feeling of Ohio fellowship still strong, gave them a hearty welcome upon their arrival here, and whisked them off in an auto to see the sights almost as soon as the Tenyo Maru was at the wharf.

A reception to Mr. and Mrs. Fulton by the Kilokana Art League was planned before their arrival and was delightfully carried out last evening. The evening was under the auspices of the Dramatic Circle of the League, of which Miss Spalding is chairman, and Mr. Fulton provided the program. It was a thoroughly enjoyable program too, and one that aroused much enthusiasm. Mr. Fulton, charming in manner, with a delightful voice, rendered a variety of selections, adding to the pleasure given by his elocution, that of thoughtful suggestion and sometimes quaint criticism of the recitation given.

During the evening he recited "An Order For a Painting," "The Lady of Seville," "The Lost Wife," "Uncle Israel," and two scenes from "Macbeth."

Preceding the program of the evening there was a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Fulton. In the receiving line with them were Mrs. William Montrose Graham, Miss Spalding, president, and Mrs. Gilmore, Judge and Mrs. S. B. Kingbury, and Consul and Mrs. Mitchell. A large number of people were present to meet and greet Mr. and Mrs. Fulton.

Following the program refreshments were served and further opportunity to meet the guests of the evening was given.

The members of the Dramatic Circle of the League were congratulated warmly on the delightful evening they had provided.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS ALEXANDER DEDICATION

New Playing Field at Oahu College Is Ideal—
W. M. Alexander Pays Tribute to His Father's Memory.

The soft breezes swept down Manoa valley as though with intent to make the sunny afternoon cool for the goodly company that assembled to watch little Patty Waterhouse unveil the tablet that marks the memory of "A loyal son of Punahou," and tells of the splendid gift to the college to perpetuate the memory of that loyal son.

And indeed it was a goodly company that was there on the new field yesterday. There were boys, old boys and young boys but all boys and there were girls. Girls everywhere, under the big tent, out on the field watching the games or playing hockey, dressed in white with dainty touches of color where fluttering ribbons displayed the college blue and gold.

It was a sight not to be missed and the college has seldom looked out upon a scene so picturesque and lively. The field itself is ideal in every way. Between where the Manoa road struggles up its first steep ascent and Rocky Hill, the land has been leveled and the hillside cut to a sloping amphitheater. Save where the cinder track shows dark around the field it is all green. The soft springy green of new turf and the whole field is level and flat like a billiard table.

The running track is a trifle more than a quarter of a mile long, there being three and a half laps to the mile. The reason of this, as explained in Arthur C. Alexander's speech, being that four laps to the mile would not enclose sufficient ground and three laps to the mile would necessitate the cutting away of so much more hillside that the expense would be out of all proportion to the good accomplished.

The field is oval in shape with the longer sides running along the hillside and the top of a bank that slopes down to the old grounds. The hill itself has been graded to a regular slope and now forms the best of grassy bleachers whence a good view of all the field may be obtained at any point. There is plenty of room on the field for a full sized football ground and a diamond for baseball as well with twenty feet of space between the diamond and the no-play line back of the Ewa goal posts. The football players can thus play and tear up the ground all they want to with their fierce scrimmages without breaking up the turf on the diamond.

Along the Manoa road runs a stone wall pierced by a wide gateway half way down. It is on the lower gateway that the tablet bearing these words is placed. "Samuel T. Alexander Athletic Field presented by Martha E. Alexander, 1907. In memory of a loyal son of Punahou."
